ALL Digital Data ONE Location

Scattered Treasures is launching the first ever celebrity-driven concept integrated with blockchain technology. The company features a quick response gateway called Yottabyte Optical Media Code (YO code). It's the latest QR technology in the marketplace, and is enhanced with predictive software, data collection, and NFT authentication.

This harmonious Metaverse platform also boasts a plethora of unique celebrity-driven revenue streams including Star Closet. Not only is this the first quick response code featuring custom URLs, it also introduces an operating system that records data points and reconfigures them into a convenient array.

Never has there been a code with faster read-speed, hyperlinks, and blockchain identity management designed for all four media screens. YO code is a sophisticated technology that enables instant connections anywhere in the world. It provides a virtual stage for celebrities and business owners to initiate connections with millions of fans, customers, and clients.

The YO code also features a patented ultimate experience technology, known as Sync to Link. These services and products are mass-market models with the capacity to interface with celebrities and fans via proprietary software.
